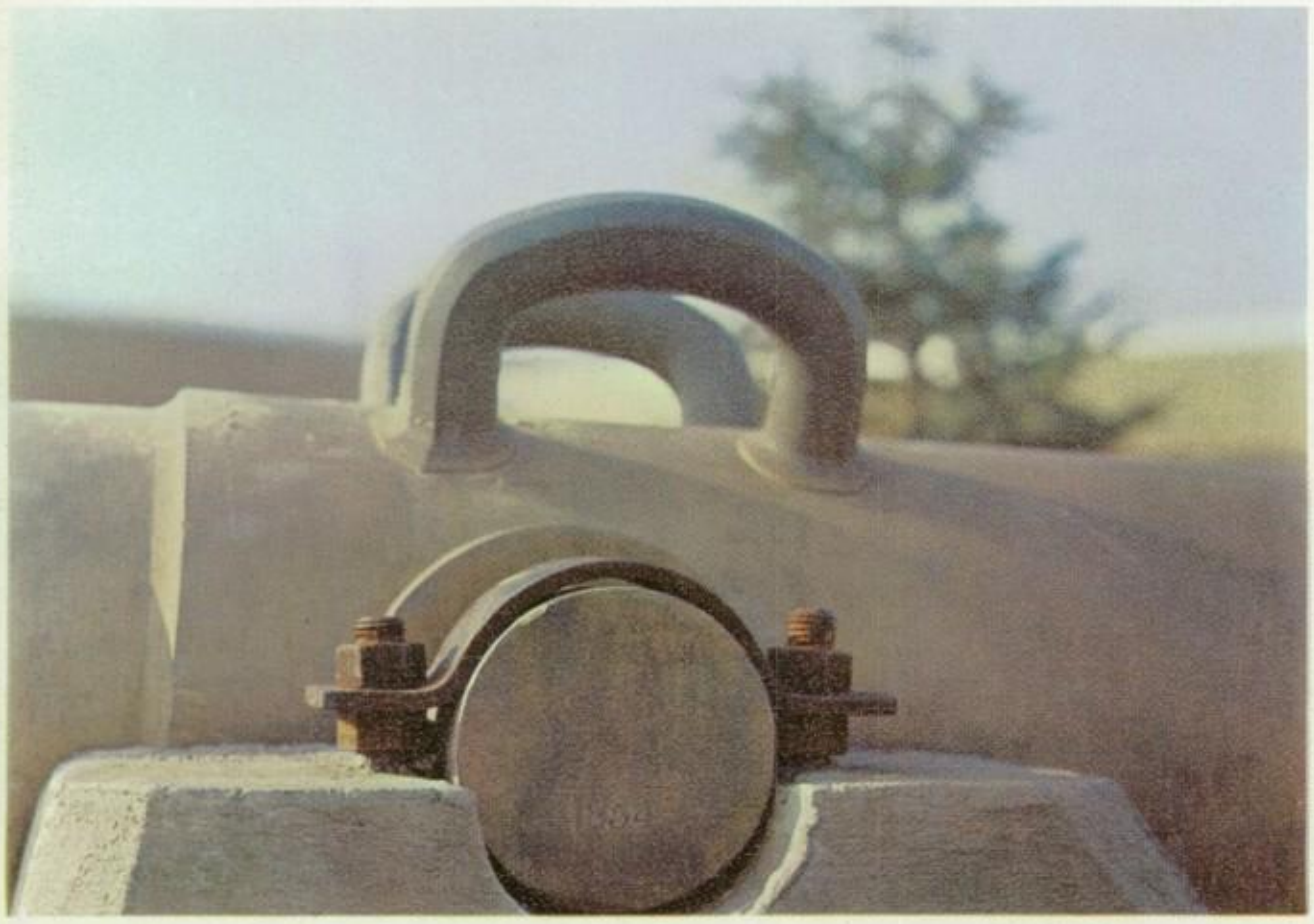
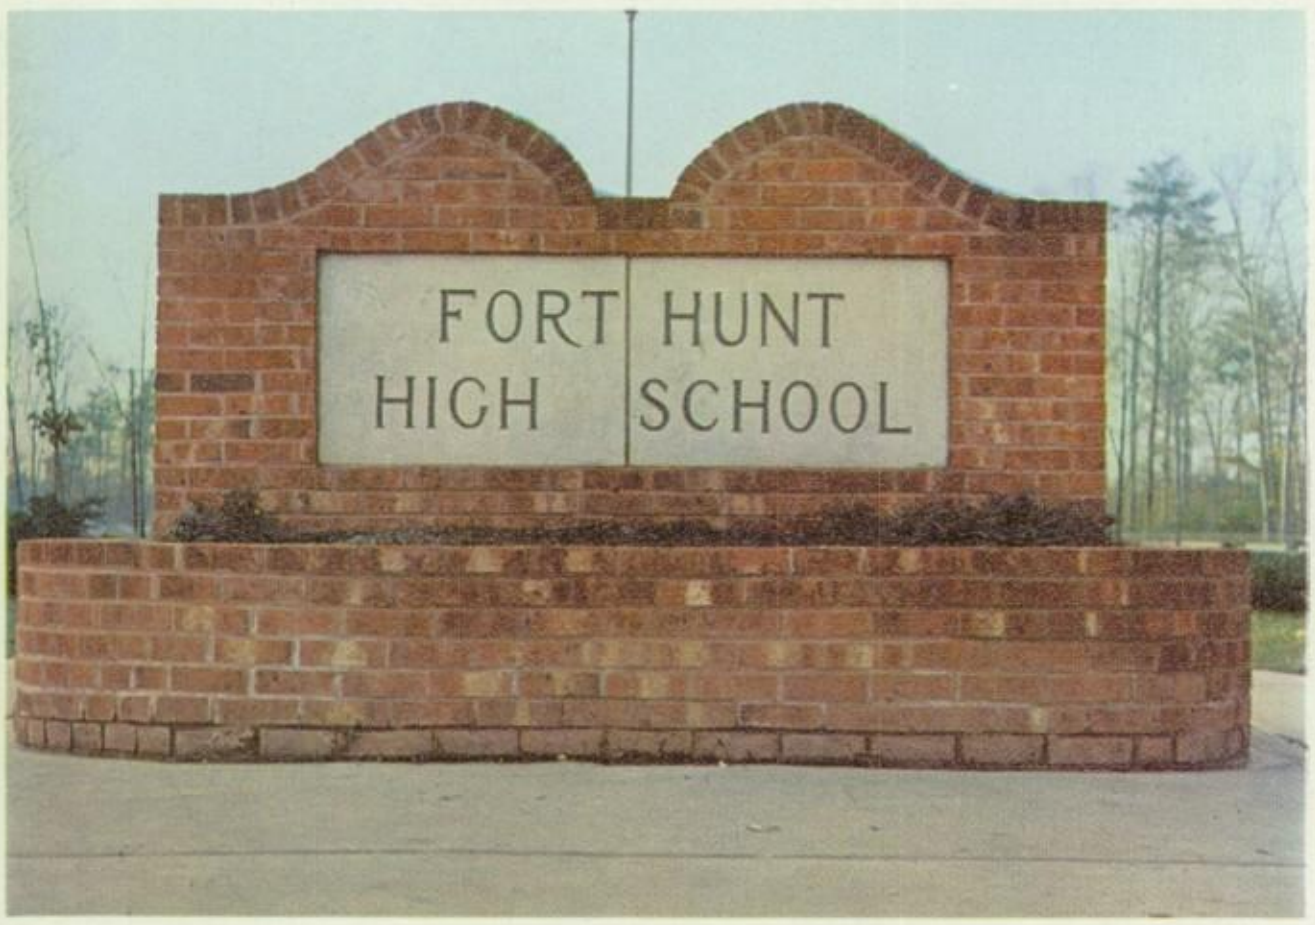
NO PARKING





From quiet moments of contemplation to spectacular events of enthusiasm, the world looks upon us. In turn, by the revelation of our aspirations through betrayal of attitude, we look upon the world. We represent youth through joy and disappointment. We represent memories stirred to reflective thought during events of change. We mirror the expression of the student body through anticipation and memory that comes, then waits to return much later. The Fortress in purpose attempts not only to capture some fleeting moment of memory, but also, to reflect what 2300 Federals expressed in 1967.

academics

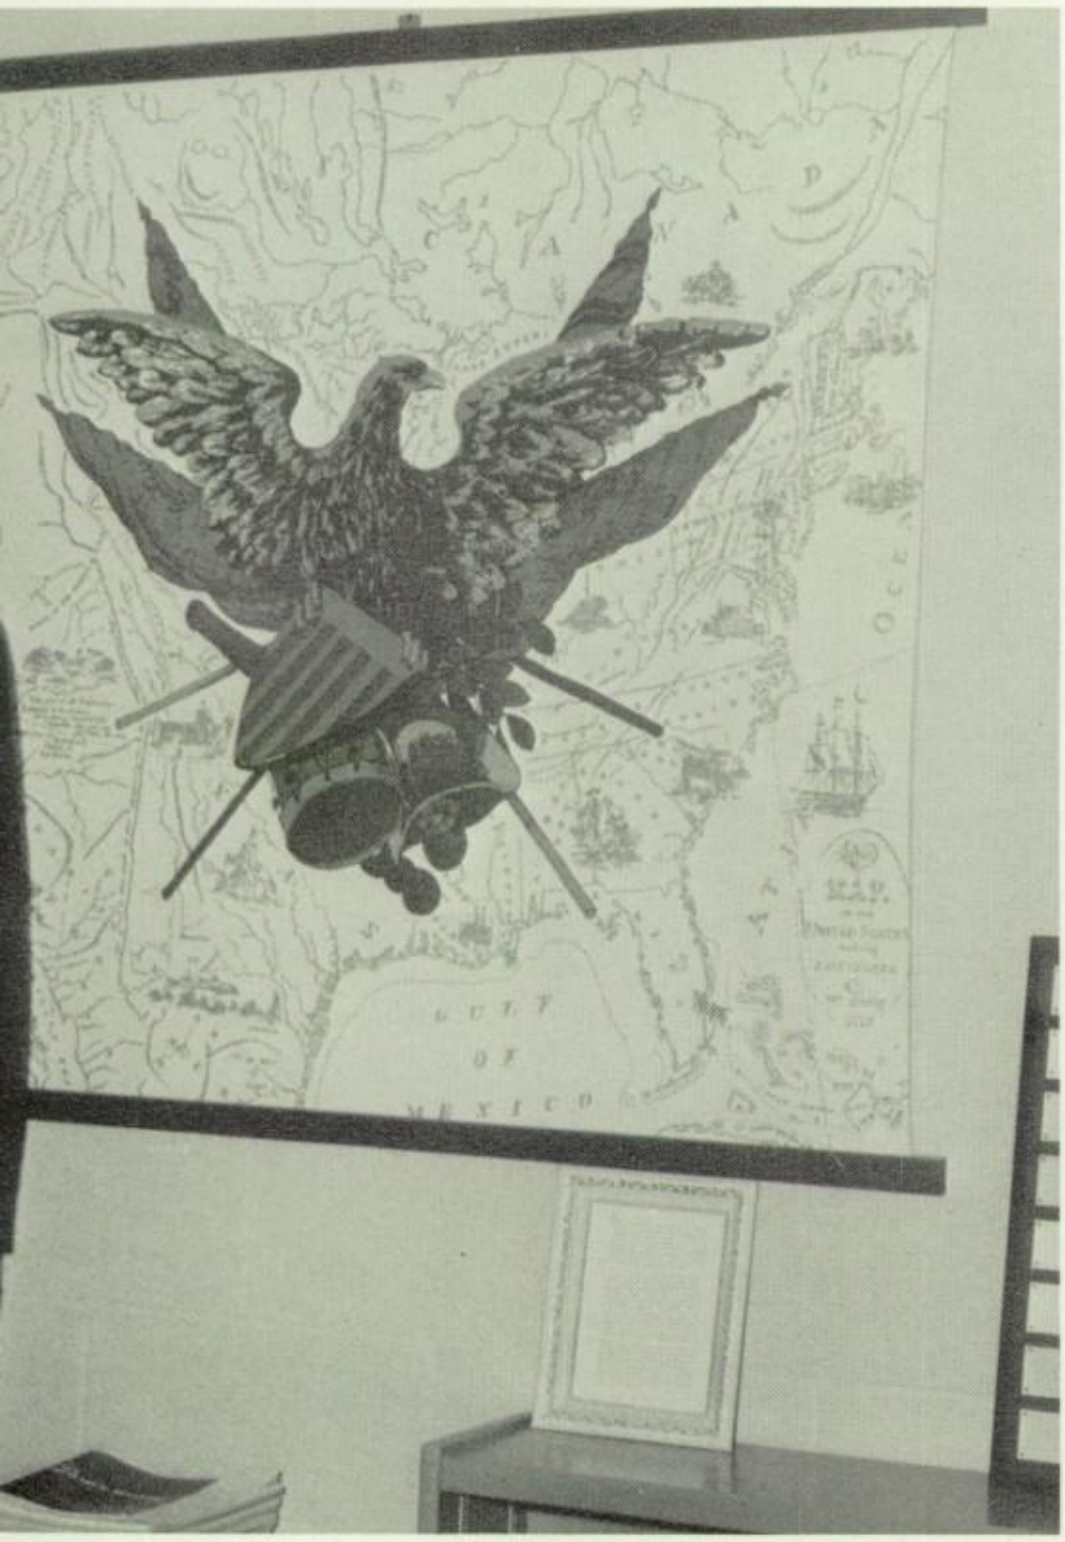
To best present the advanced curriculum it offers, Fort Hunt maintains a large and very good faculty. And not only do the teachers offer students an excellent education, but they go out of their way to know Federals, to participate with Federals in their school. Fort Hunt's teachers are the student's friends, and in the academic grind somehow find time for a friendly grin or nod.

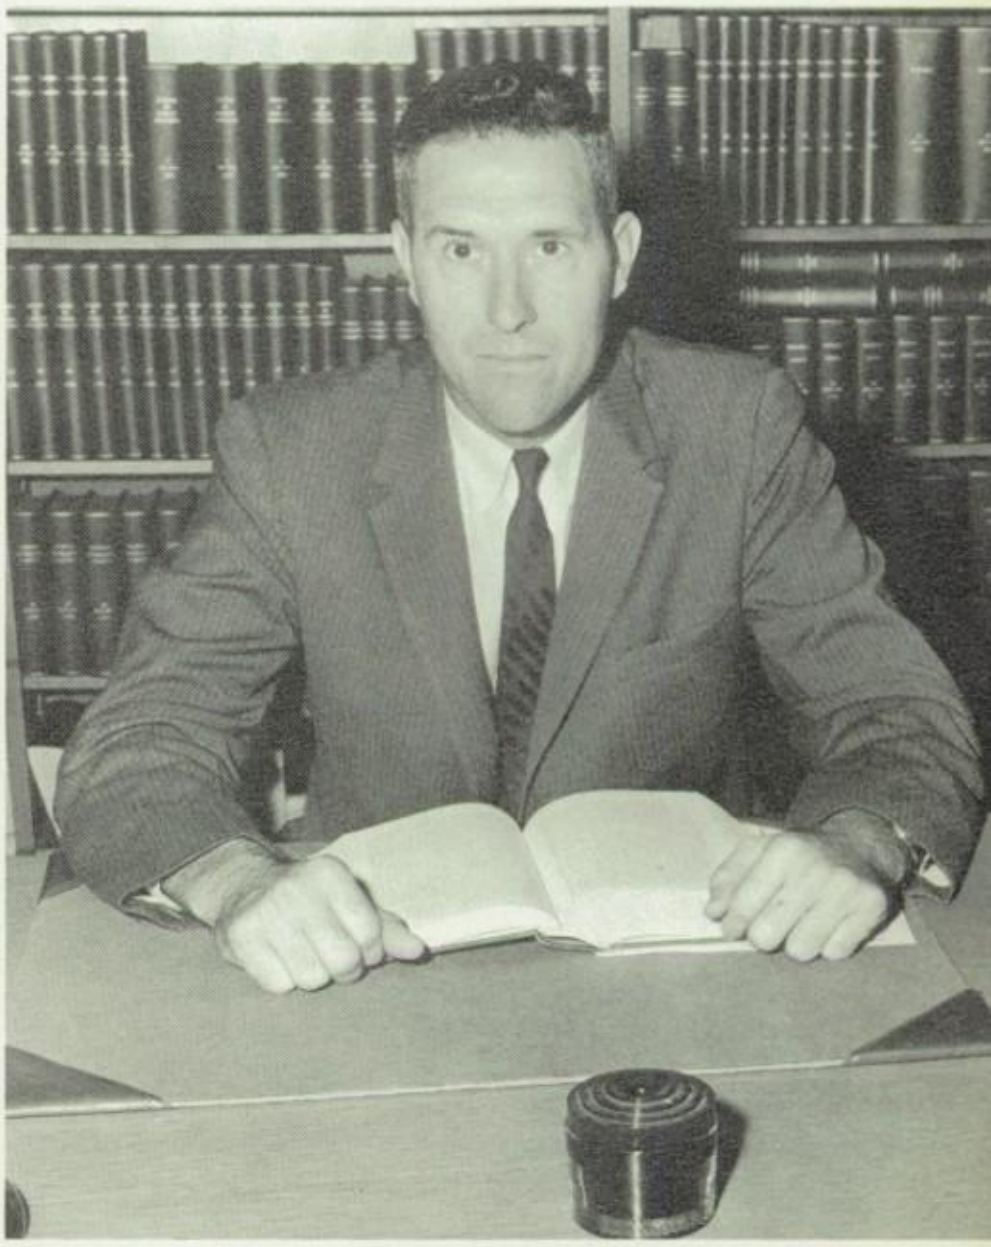
administration

Guiding with firm hands the business and activities of Fort Hunt, the administration does its best to insure that the school year is devoted to the task of educating tomorrow's citizens. Under the dedicated and capable leadership of Mr. Gibbs and his able assistants, the administration maintains a firm control and a concerned interest throughout the many and varied phases of Fort Hunt's program. Students are thus assured of the administration's goal to daily uphold the essence of excellence at Fort Hunt.

Mr. Gibbs

Mr. Adams





Mr. Lyons

Mr. Dolinger

As the Student progresses through four years at Fort Hunt, he learns to look to the Guidance Department for the help that he needs. Whether he be a graduating Senior or an incoming freshman, the student can expect to receive expert help from the Guidance Department in solving questions of academic preparations, social problems, and problems of a personal nature. The ambitious staff, under the Directorship of Mr. Smart, aims to help students in all ways. They offer especially useful aid in helping the student to prepare for and to be accepted by the college of his choice.

Because language underlies all human experiences, Fort Hunt stresses the study of English, striving to impress students with the tremendous value and beauty of the English language. The study of literature, classical and contemporary, offers a format and medium by which a student is introduced to new and old ideas upon which he may develop his own. Using new techniques and offering a broader program than ever before, the English Department introduces the student to the practical skills of English, to the heritage and beauty of its tongue, and to the great wealth and depth of human wisdom and experiences through literature, preparing today's student for a richer tomorrow.

mathematics

As today's society grows more complex in technology and science, mathematics comes to play a greater role in man's daily life than ever before. To meet the demands of society and its technology, and to prepare the student for the mathematically complex world in which he lives, the Mathematics Department, increased this year by several new teachers, seeks to provide students with a greater understanding of the significance and widespread applicability of mathematics, to give the student a knowledgeable background in math with the latest techniques and resources.

language

The student taking a foreign language at Fort Hunt is not only immersed in the basic structure of his chosen language, but also into another new and different culture. The romance of Paris, the Latin temperament of Spain, and the Saxon hardiness of Germany are brought into the classrooms through the efforts of the Language Department to give the student an excellent background in his language, thus working toward better international communications in the future.

social studies

To understand our progressive society, its past heritage and present functions, the Social Studies Department offers students an opportunity to explore in depth mankind's civilization. Combing ingenuity of teaching methods with a strong insight into the subject, the Social Studies Department provides a unique drawbridge into the past linking the past with the activities of the present. By projecting the national movement into the classroom, students are made increasingly aware of the ever-expanding world about them.

With a test tube and a microscope, through experiments and applied facts, the student is introduced to the basic concepts of science in order to gain a strong and varied background in the scientific foundations of today's progressive society. The student learns to observe, to apply facts, and to come to conclusions; he is introduced to the processes of rational evaluation through a knowledge of fundamental principles. In addition to teaching the student scientific attitudes and reasoning, the Science Department trys to encourage an interest and development in science, to develop commanding skills vitally needed in modern technology and advancement.

To prepare the student to meet the stiff demands of business and to coordinate academic pursuits with business ideals are among the goals of the Business Department. Combining new teachers with new methods, including Distributive Education in which the student "learns and earns," the Business Department formulates a rigorous and comprehensive program of instruction which introduces the student to the business world, and gives the student superior training to meet its demands.

physical education

The Greeks adulation of physical prowess and their firm belief in a strong and healthy body emerges in the activities of the Physical Education Department, who seek to fulfill the pressing need for unrestricted health. In addition to providing healthy exercise and physical development, the activities of the Physical Education Department develop in the student the traits of leadership and sportsmanship. The department firmly believes that physical health must be in constant counterbalance with mental soundness if the individual is to progress adequately in meeting the standards of today's generation.

fine arts

With an eye for beauty and a hand for creation, the Fine Arts Department brings together the aesthetic qualities of Art with the fragile timelessness of music and the power of drama. With a strong desire to instill the love of the fine arts in students, the Fine Arts Department offers a wide variety of excellent courses in art, music, and drama, and offers all the students at Fort Hunt the opportunity to attend presentations of student achievement in the fine arts.

While the students in Home Economics bake a cake, the students in the Industrial Art courses busily build. In the excellent facilities of the Home Ec Department, the students are taught all aspects of home-making for that future home. In the fully equipped shops in the school, students are taught the skills necessary to build that future home. Together both departments work to create the homemaker, or homebuilder, of tomorrow.

classes

For the four classes of Fort Hunt, the freshman, sophomores, juniors, and Seniors, it has been a good year, and one to be well remembered. Each class has excelled academically and has contributed to richen the social life at Fort Hunt. Working separately and working together, all Four Classes embodied the spirit of Fort Hunt High School.

organizations

The many organizations flourishing at Fort Hunt form the backbones of Federal social activity. Through the efforts of students in their organizations, there is a constant progression of things to do within the school. But the organizations at Fort Hunt are not entirely for fun; the public service organizations at school do constant good for the school, while the many clubs combine fun with learning, enriching the student with knowledge gained through participation and fellowship.

Giving the students an active voice in their school, the SCA acts as a laison between the student body, the faculty, and the administration. With new laws effective this year, the SCA continues to strive to become a greater representative body of the students, working with other organizations throughout the school to broaden student influence in the daily activities of Fort Hunt. The achievements of the SCA are the result of time and effort spent by students themselves, working as one for the good of all.

The Senior Class Council, responsible for coordinating Senior activities, has worked hard this year for the class. Due to the efforts of the Council, the Class of '67, the first class to complete four years at Fort Hunt, will have their senior trip, receive homage from underclassmen on Senior Night, and will display their talents in the Senior Play. After the year's end whirlwind of excitement, four years of school will be climaxed by the graduation and Senior Prom.

The Junior Class Council has served well in its dual role of liaison to the class and of organizers and instigators of class activities. Organizational breakdowns were unheard of, as these ablebodied organizers produced, sponsored and directed paper drives, bake sales, the class picnic, the Powderpuff game, Sadie Hawkins, and the prom. Amid footballs, magazines, T w e r p cards, rings, and formals, the council has maintained a unified and informed class of 1968.

Under the competent leadership of the Sophomore Class Council, the class members participated in paper drives, bake sales, and various other fund raising activities. The council members sponsored class functions, promoted school activities, and co-ordinated and supported the school life of the underclassmen. The two big projects of the class were the magazine campaign and a drive at Christmas to help the needy families in the immediate area. In the spring the sophomores held their Spring Dance. A successful Class Council made this year a successful year for the sophomores.

The freshman class began its first year of high school with mixed emotions and mass-confusion. However, soon mastering school routine, the class added immeasurable strength to the school, actively contributing to school functions with time, talent, and enthusiasm. The years remain before the frosh will graduate, but the road of success, while difficult at times, will be otherwise crowded with fun and high achievement.

fortress

A yearbook is something to be cherished by many people. Years after graduation former Federals may thumb through its pages recalling fond memories. The editors of the Fortress worked hard this year to give Federals a warm remembrance of the 1966-67 school year. They toiled to make this the largest and the best yearbook ever.

Mr. Pattisall.

Behind every issue of the Front Line there are seven slightly mad editors, two deflated Journalism I classes, and one exhausted sponsor. But through constant and d i l i g e n t effort, through a sincere and conscientious interest in the school, and through a rigid sense of disipline, the Front Line, printed bi-weekly for the students of Fort Hunt, was able to uphold the quality of newspaper that has made it an award-winning school paper.

turret

The Turret, Fort Hunt's art-literary magazine, represents a cross-section of the best of Federals' artistic and literary talents. The Turret aims to provide an outlet for creative students, to encourage the development of their talents, and to present their combined efforts in one pleasing issue for the enjoyment of students. The materials are selected from those submitted by the student-body and comprises the best that Fort Hunt has to offer.

The Block enabled Fort Hunt students to purchase the publications in a single pact. Federals through this plan received one copy of the yearbook, one copy of the literary magazine, and bimonthly issues of the newspaper. Through the family plan, those students in large families were able to purchase separate editions of each publication. The girls on the staff worked hard not only in the sale of publications but also in paper work, finance, and distribution.

national honor society

The primary purpose of the National Honor Society is to recognize those students who have demonstrated superior academic achievement and qualities of leadership. Under the direction of the sponsors, Mr. Schloemer and Mrs. Chapman, the group has undertaken such activities as organizing the college catalogues in Guidance, working with the administration on improving the curriculum, and guiding at College Night.

national thespians

The lure of the footlights is strong for the National Thespians, who are devoted to the advancement of dramatic arts. Members spent hours building scenes, memorizing for "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." The result was a job well done, a sense of accomplishment, and, for the audience, an evening of worthwhile entertaintment.

spanish honor society

A student inducted into the Spanish Honor Society must pledge to broaden his knowledge of the language and of the Spanish-speaking peoples. By having guest speakers and by dining at a Spanish restaurant, the Spanish Honor Society hopes to stimulate "interest in the foreign exchange program, usage of the Spanish language, and the introduction of the Spanish-American culture to the students."

german

honor society

The members of the German Honor Society speak German very well, because, like all foreign language honor societies, the German Honor Society is interested in the promotion of German in Fort Hunt. The Honor Society planned and carried out numerous activities to further their interest in German, including their annual dinner at the Bavarian Club.

french honor society

The purpose of the French Honor Society has been mainly to honor those students who do excellent work in French and have a high overall average. Aside from outings at restaurants, the club also offered a series of French films shown after school to all interested students and lectures given by various college professors including a Fulbright Scholar. The proceeds from the films were used to purchase French books for the library and to fulfill needs of the French Dept. A tutoring service was also offered to all students in need of help in French.

The International Relations Club was extremely active this year working to promote a better understanding of foreign peoples and problems. The IRC had speakers once a month who gave "presentations on controversial topics of current interest." There were talks on Latin-American problems, on the war in Viet Nam, and on the Israeli-Arab conflict, among others. The IRC also sponsored a Debate Club presentation and contributed to making clown costumes for the war in Viet Nam.

german club

"Deutsch" to a members of the German Club is like English to an Englishman — absolutely essential. The German Club, which aims to promote the study of German culture and language, has been extremely active this years. Its members put on a Christmas party for its members; a Fasching, a German Mardi-Gras; and went to Annapolis to view a German Exchange film.

russian club

Going to a Russian bookstore, lunching at a Russian restaurant, and attending college level Russian Classes were among the many ways the Russian Club worked to stimulate interest in Russian in Fort Hunt. With the goals of furthering their knowledge of today's Russian culture as well as of the language itself, the Russian Club carried through a varied and interesting program.

latin club

The Latin Club was established to promote the study of Latin and to help make each member aware of our rich Roman heritage. Films, banquets, discussions, and guest speakers were a few of the ways in which the Latin Club was able to acquaint the student with "the glory that was Rome." The Fort Hunt High School Latin Club is a member of the Junior Classical League, a national organization created for the promotion of Latin in the classroom.

french club

Striving to familiarize its members with France, her culture, her language, and its people, Le Cercle Francais, guided by the French Department, has accomplished much during its first year, including dining at a French restaurant and attending a foreign film in Washington, D. Familiarization of students with the customs and literature of Spain and with Spanish and Latin-American art, stimulation of interest in the spoken language, and recognition of high achievement in the study of Spanish are only the basic tenets of the Spanish Club, which hopes to introduce its members into a greater awareness of the Spanish-speaking world. This year, the club hopes to complete a number of planned excursions and activities.

tri-hi-y

The Fort Hunt Tri-H-Y is a service organization dedicated to service to the home, school, and community. Affiliated with the national YMCA, this year's main theme has been "Service to your school first." Thus, the club's main goal was raising money for the school library, supplemented by smaller charitable works throughout the year. Its universal goal, however, is to help teenage girls gain the fullest meaning of life by their work with others.

keyettes

This year the Keyettes plunged into Fort Hunt's activities with rollicking fun and rousing success. From delivering the New York Times to shining shoes, from holding a faculty tea, to singing Christmas carols, from hanging decorations, to sponsoring a dance, the girls worked hard this year to make Fort Hunt a better place for everyone. The Keyettes also worked with the Key Club at school activities to better serve the students.

The over-all goal of the Future Homemakers of America is to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living, now and in the future. The motto of F.H.A. members, "Toward New Horizons," reminds members that their contribution to home life today will influence the homes of tomorrow, that the family life of members will influence the community and the world. To achieve these challenges, the F.H.A. holds various service projects such as making garments for state hospital patients and the ever-present "Donut Shop".

As a group, the club visited hospital departments such as the Physical Therapy Lab at Alexandria Hospital, which helped answer questions of both personal and general natures. As for special events the club hosted an afterschool valentines day tea for the faculty and have attended Alexandria nursing school teas. The finale for this year was a trip to the D. C. Center School of Nursing, where the FNA toured the campus and obtained new and refreshing thoughts and ideas about the nursing profession.

Established this year, the Fort Hunt High School Chapter of DECA, the Distributive Education Clubs of America, provides leadership development through a professional organization for Distributive Education students. The club strives to cement relationships through D. camera club

With lenses clicking and flash bulbs popping, the Camera Club actively practiced the art of Photography, taking pictures of the Powder-Puff football game and the regular Varsity football games. The club is striving for a complete coverage of all spring activities, use of a new dark room, and a possible field trip to a rocket launching station. With new techniques and creative thought, the club hopes to get all Fort Hunt on film.

The debate club has successfully represented Fort Hunt in interscholastic debate throughout the history of the school. The main goal of the team is to establish for the school a high and outstanding reputation in the field of debate which in turn contributes to the academic standing of our school. The club offers any interested student the opportunity to become a competent debater and to test his ability in actual debates between rival schools. It equips any working individual with talents he can use for the rest of his life, for active debating teaches the organization of ideas, the quick thinking needed under pressure and the most effective methods of communications.

With green and white shakers and inspiring cheers, the green jumpered Pep Club members chanted and cheered during school athletic functions, urging the Federals on to victories and spreading enthusiasm throughout the stands. The members of the Pep Club also worked throughout the year with the cheerleaders to exemplify determination to win and to promote school sportsmanship and spirit.

To the members of the newly created Academy of Science, Fort Hunt offers a fertile field in which to cultivate scientific pursuits. First among the immediate goals of the infant society is the creation of an equipped lab and science library for experiments and research by its members. In addition to individual experimental research in the lab, the Academy plans a series of seminars, speakers, and field trips to increase its knowledge of science.

sports car club

Dedicated to the lure of fine cars old and new, Federals organized this year the Ford Antique and Sports Car Club. The first year's activities included several car rallies and excursions to local race tracks. After getting off to a slow start, the Club well proved the faith its founders had in it with a successful program and exploding membership.

riding club

The Riding Club, organized to bring together those persons interested in the fundamental principles and practices of horsemanship and to give those persons the opportunity of excercising these principles, hopes to develop sportsmanslike behavior. The many activities of the Riding Club have included weekly rides to Woodlawn Plantation Polo Club, a field trip to the Washington International Horse Show, the sponsoring of classes at local horse shows, the planning and sponsoring of the Riding Club's own horse show, trips to large breeding farms in Virginia and Maryland. The Riding Club also presented panel discussions at weekly meetings and films made by the American Horse Shows Association.

industrial arts club

Among the many things the Industrial Arts Club did this year was to take a trip to the General Motors Assembly Plant. The club, open to any student interested in shop work, also turned its talents to work for Fort Hunt, making frames for the school and doing construction for the Home Ec Department. They also presented a show case on the various aspects of shopwork.

art club

The Art Club actively works to develop and encourage aesthetic qualities and cultural explorations by Federals, working to bring the beauty and depth of art within reach of the student body, for its enlightenment and enjoyment. In the annual art show, students' performances are rewarded with various prizes. Inspiration to create is thus fostered and encouraged and achievements recognized.

ski club

"Think Snow" is the zesty cry of members of the Ski Club. Composed of many amateur skiers, the club makes a yearly trip in December to the Blue Knobb Mountains to perfect their ski-techniques on the slopes. Throughout the year, the Ski Club members view films, listen to lectures by professional skiers, and exchange experiences with each other. The thrills and excitement of the slope add to the Ski Club members development of better agility and coordination in skiing skills with the most fun possible.

Performing in four choral concerts at school and for several civic affairs, the Concert Choir, compiled of fifty selected juniors and seniors, has been extremely active in harmonizing Fort Hunt. All fifty students were auditioned and approved by the director last spring. The Choir's main purpose is to achieve perfection in its singing, as a group and as individuals, learning better techniques of song.

After weeks of hard work and diligent practice, in perfect cadence and with white pom-poms flashing in the sun, the Fort Hunt Drill Team marched onto the football field early this year to open the first pep rally of the football season. The green and white clad girls of the Drill Team, Fort Hunt's precision marching unit, performed at every home game thereafter and in various local parades throughout the year, displaying to Federals their excellent coordination and organization to create intricate maneuvers and patterns on the field.

"To boost team morale" is the aim of the Varsity Cheerleaders, but the eight Varsity girls gave a big boost throughout the year to Federal spirit for its Varsity teams. Between games, the cheerleaders put up posters and banners, and sold the victory ribbons for the oncoming game. With arms and legs flying, their green and white pom-poms thrown wildly into the air, and their megaphones near at hand, the eight on the sidelines work almost as hard as the players on the field. With the pep of the Cheerleaders to spark them on, Federals cheered their teams on to victories.

While the Varsity Cheerleaders cheer the Varsity teams to victory, the Junior Varsity and Freshmen Cheerleaders spark their teams on to equal heights. At each game they lend their talents and energies to boost team spirit. Off the field, the J.V. help the Varsity Cheerleaders sell victory ribbons and put up posters and banners that herald coming victory. Freshmen Cheerleaders — to the aspiring girl, but the first step to becoming Varsity — while their cheers are often lost in the Varsity and J.V. cries, chirp up loudly at the Freshmen games. Doing their best to enthuse Federals, the Junior Varsity and Frosh Cheerleaders spur their teams on to powerful victories.

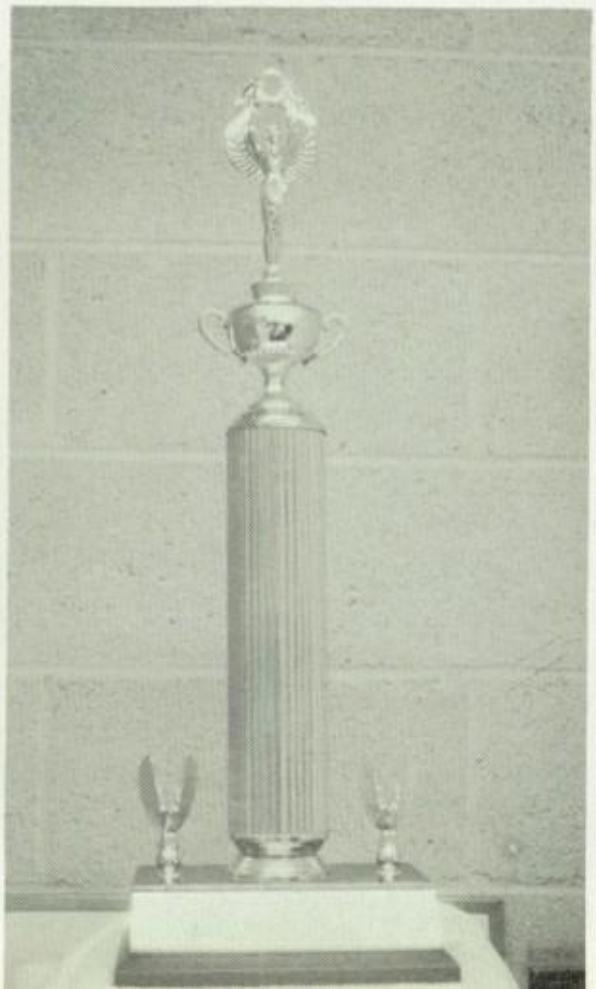
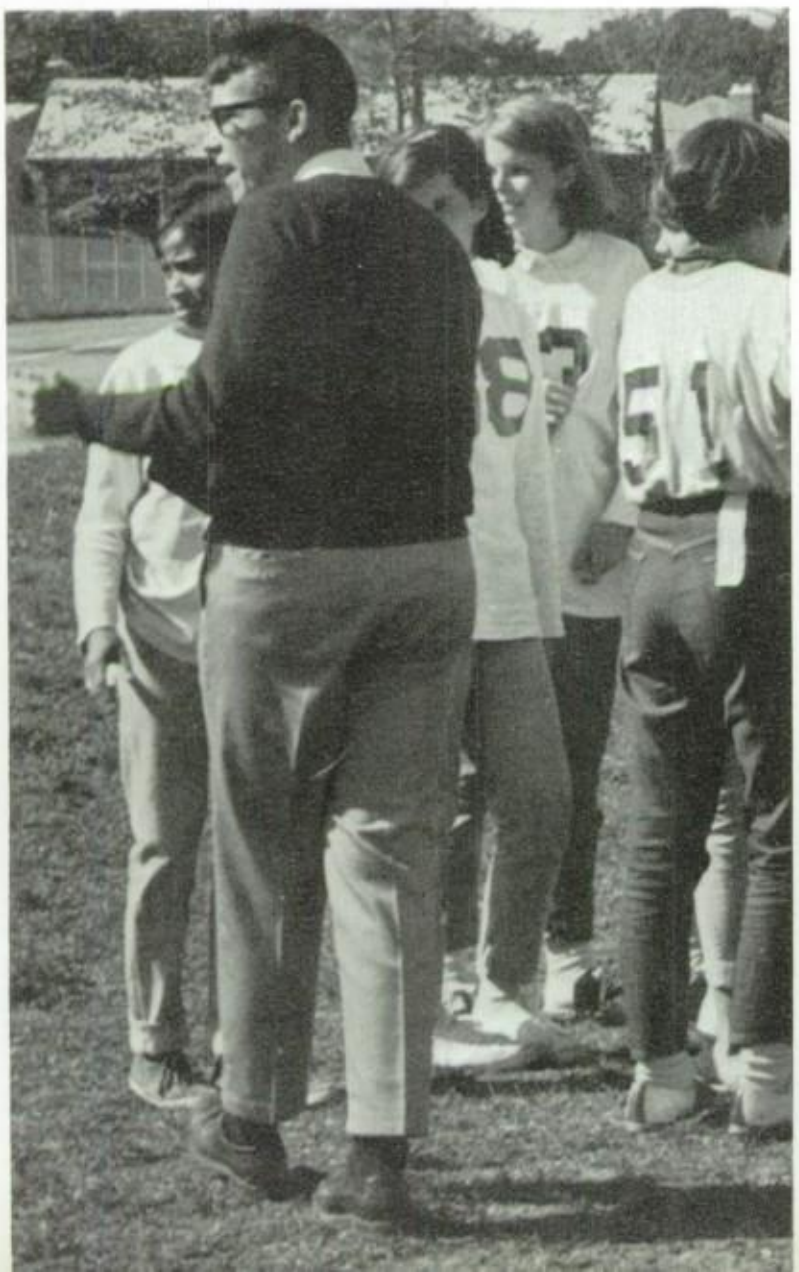
It is the sum total of the daily events and the single magnificent events of those special days that capture the imagination of the individual student. This year the Federals worked hard but time was set aside for enjoyment and there remains an expressed imprint of student life activity.



powder puff

"Break out the tear gas!"



Polevaulting is fun, but this is ridiculous!

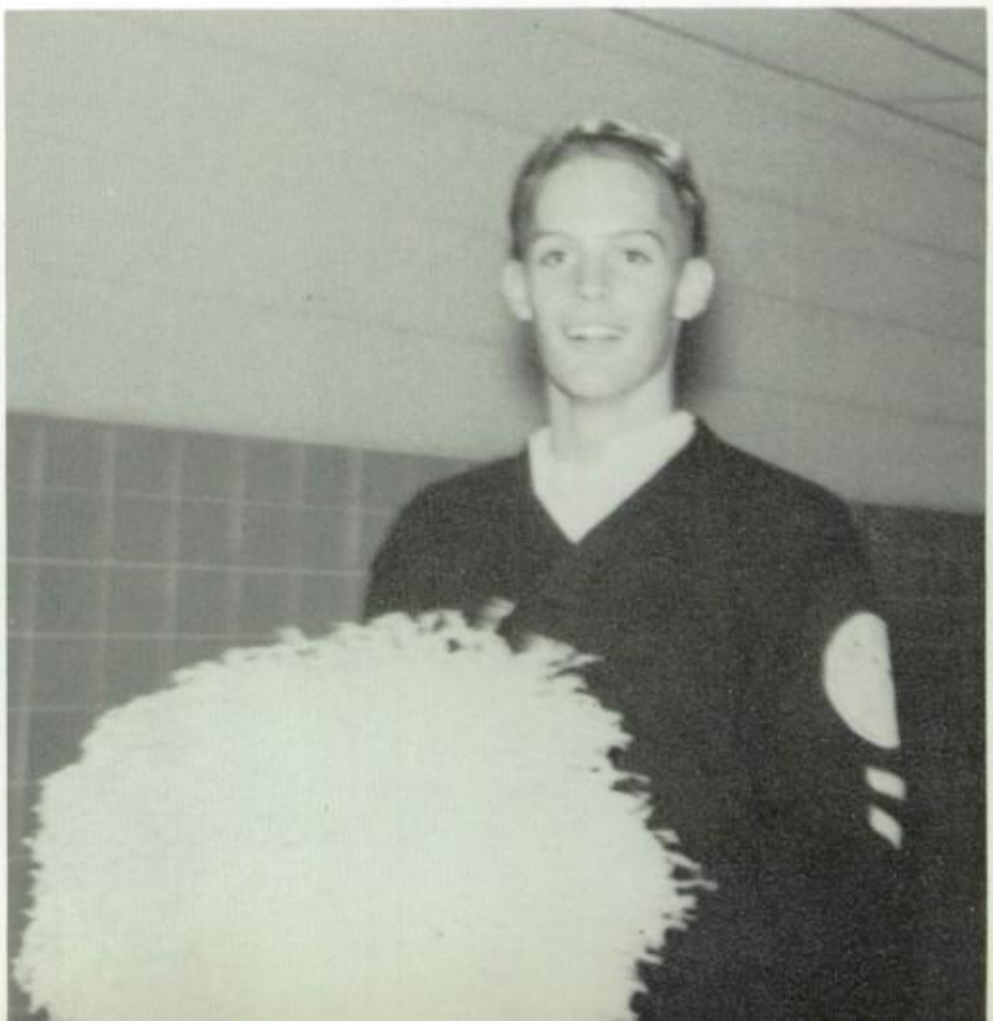
At least run toward our goal post!

I was so sure we had the ball . . .

After previous years of junior domination, the Senior girls rose up to defeat the junior girls at the Powder Puff Football game. During this game, the boys took the parts of the drill team and the cheerleaders, and the girls imitated the male athletes. It was a close game all the way, hard fought and fun for all!

Do you mind? Do you mind?

Hi there, big boy!



"Stop complaining; I lost five pounds since the last game.

"Hurray for Beef-A-Roni . . . !"

Happiness is sharing something special.

The color and excitement of football homecoming holds a "specialness" over all other student events during the year. For weeks anticipations and pride are seen in the conversation of Fort Hunt students. When at last the event was completed and darkness transcended over the stadium there remained many impressions to last through the years. The crowds had experienced the night with novelty, remembrance, or returning to talk of the yesterday that was. For each individual there was a different meaning but for each person the memory recalls that this is Fort Hunt High School.

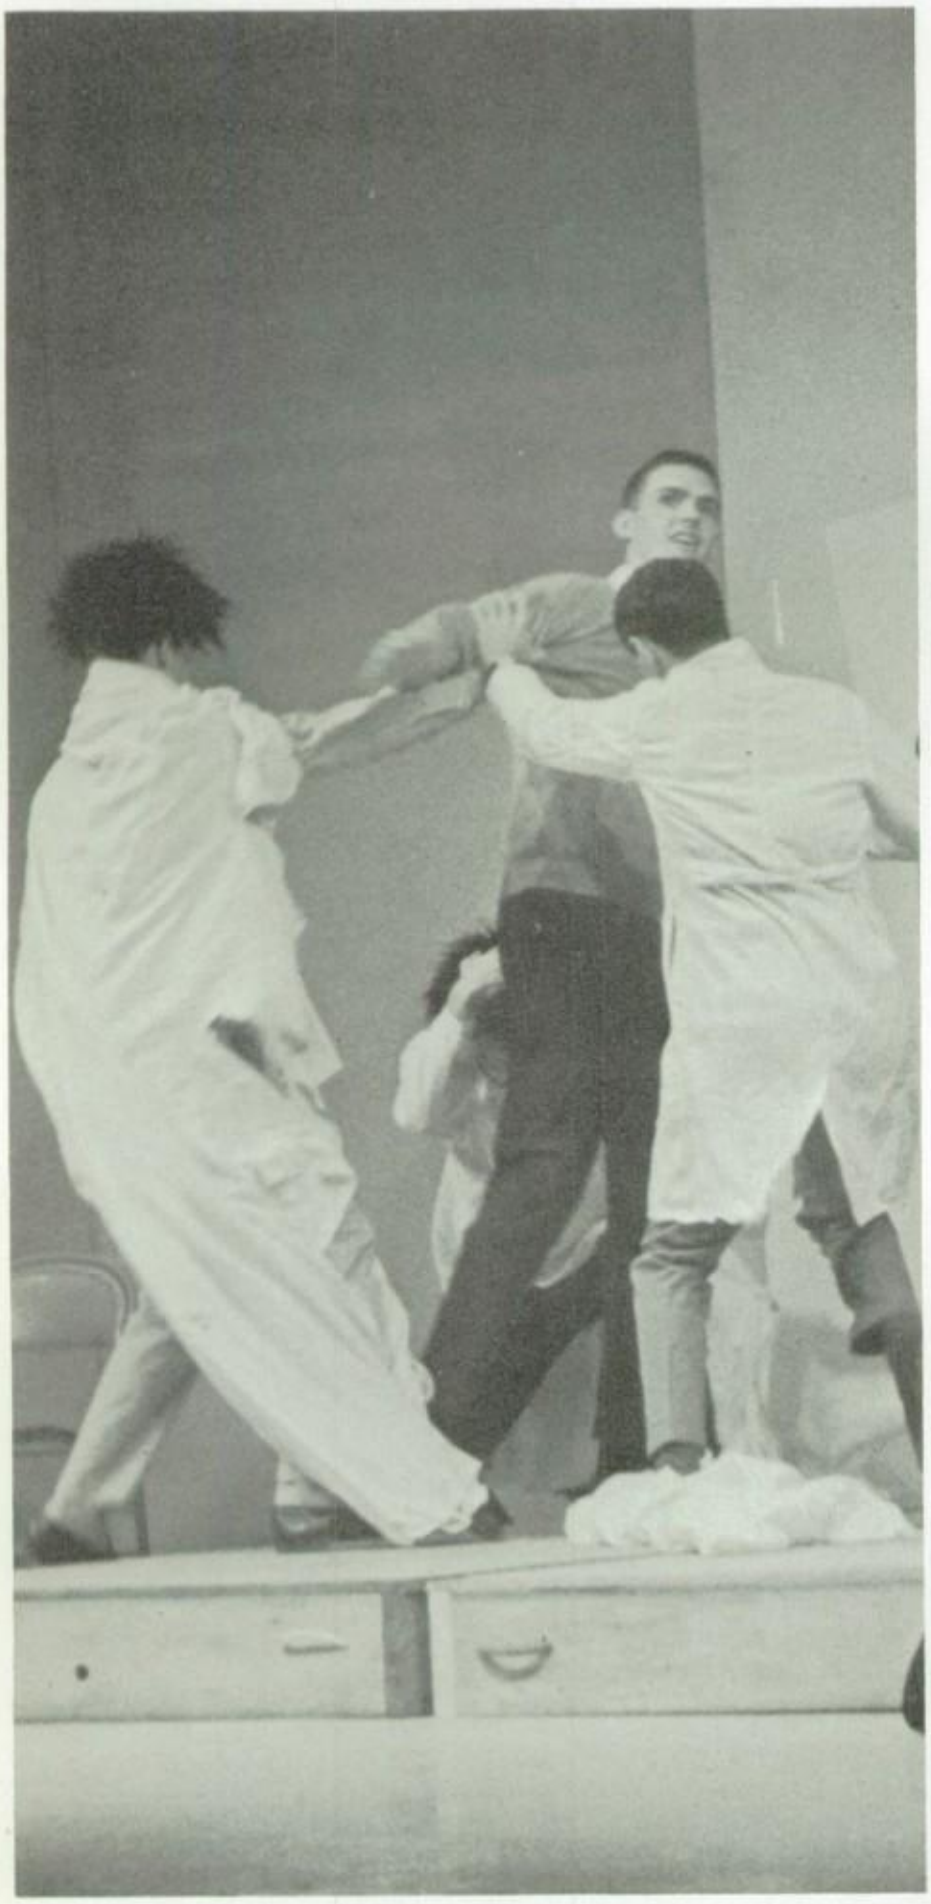
magazine campaign

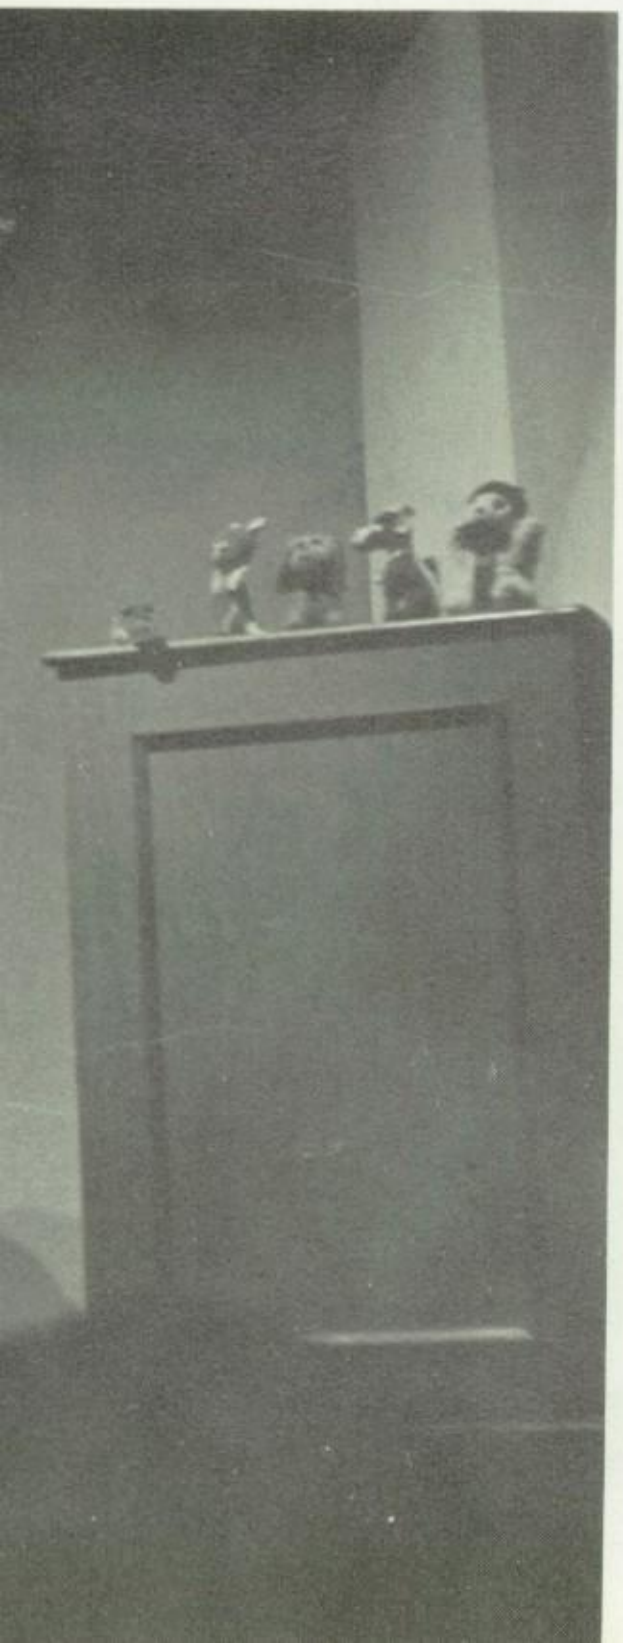
The biggest financial activity of the year was the Magazine Campaign, in which all the classes competed in selling magazines to fill Fort Hunt coffers. The diferent classes held skits to promote sales, and each class daily stressed the importance of bringing in the orders. Stuffed dolls and other awards were presented to zealous salesmen, and to the best salesman went a Honda motorcycle. The money earned for the school and the fun in earning it made the magazine campaign well worth the effort.

"Well, Doctor, what do you suggest we do now?"

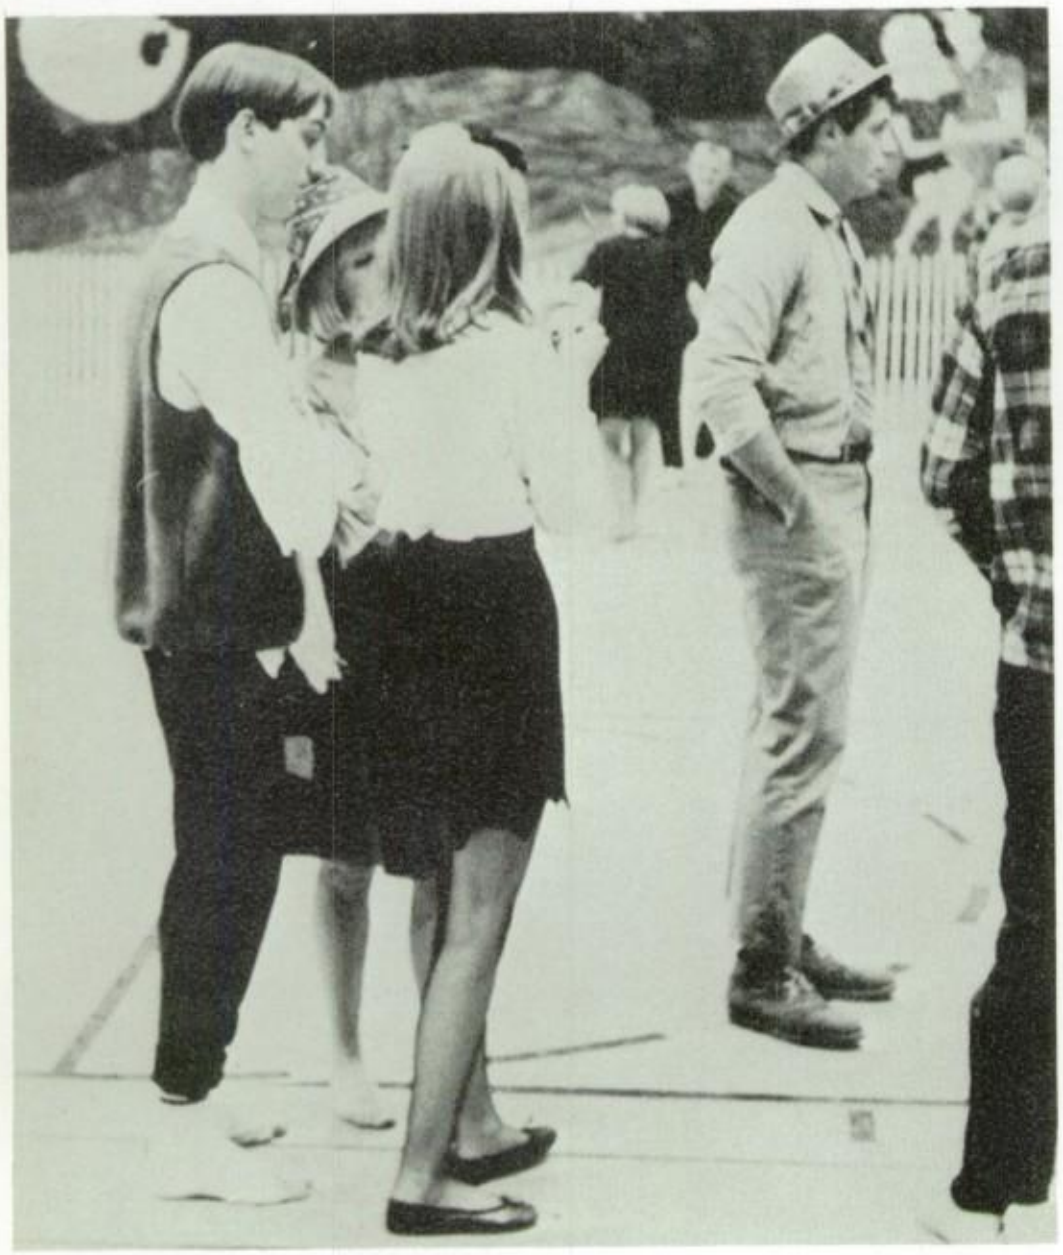


"Why don't you boys play our game? Jacks!"

And then the prophet spoke . . .



Why don't you watch where I'm going?

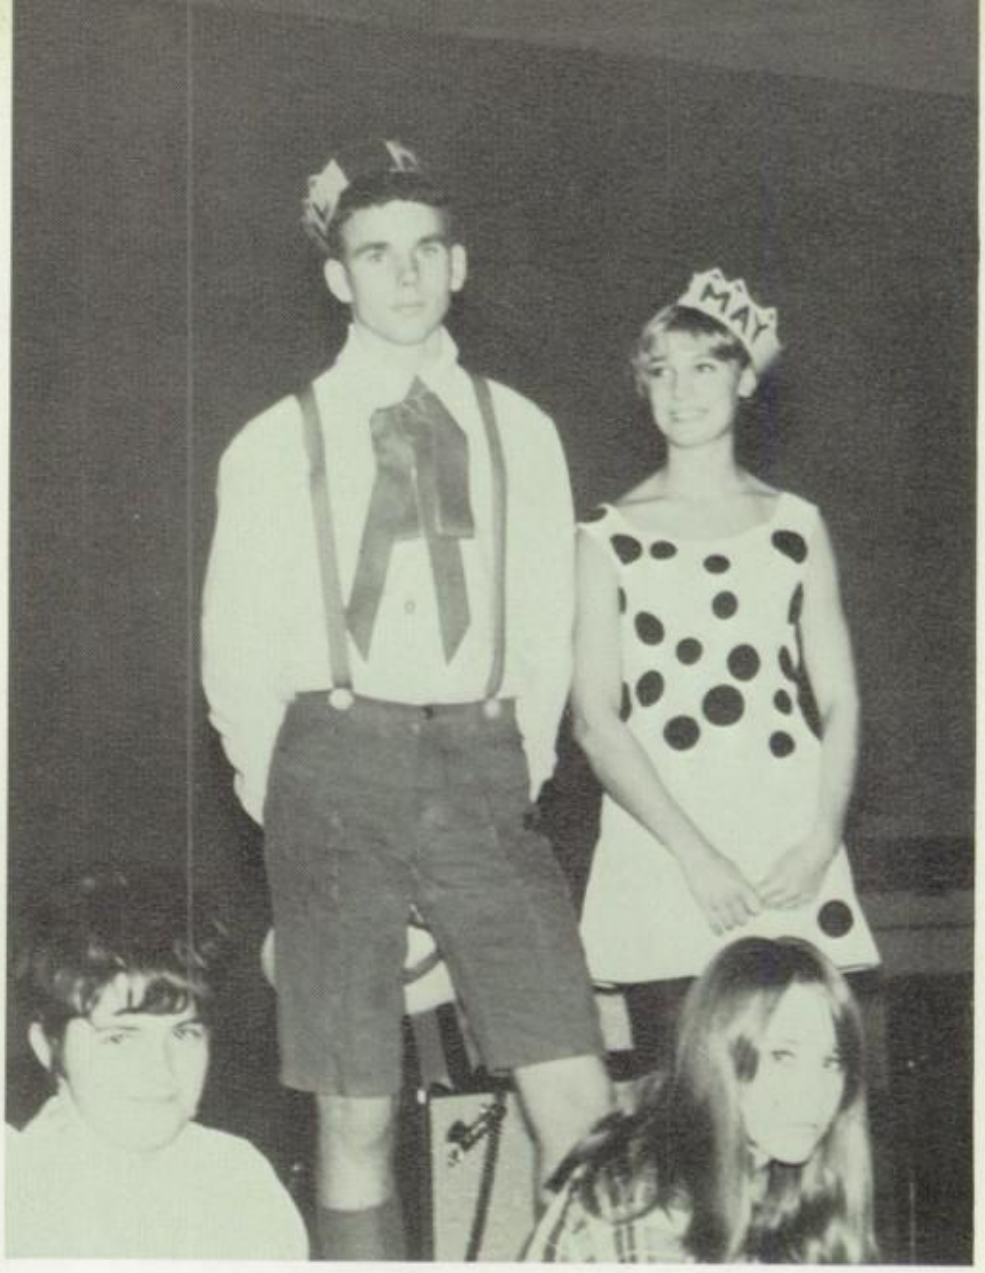


"Can't tell me he ain't fed gud viddles!"

"Gimme sum cyder or I ain't gunna cummence to be your partner."

sadie hawkins

The girls caught the boys and dragged them to the altar as Marryin' Sam performed the "wedding" at this year's Sadie Hawkins Dance. The Dance followed a week of girl-chases-boy activity in which the boys, for a week, had the fun of playing hard-to-get. In true Dogpatch style, the Sadie Hawkins Dance was fun for both the pursuer and the pursued.



L'il Abner and Daisie Mae

Well sponsored organizations help instill Christmas spirit.

christmas

The Yuletide season was a full one at Fort Hunt, with a riotous swirl of activities. The Federals decked the halls with the jolly spirit of Santa Claus, with Christmas carols, and good will towards men.

Happiness is helping which is giving — and it's Christmas.

Each class had "their" way of wishing all Federals a Merry Christmas!

In a school of 2250, the girls believe, there has to be one perfect male. It is in the quest of this perfect specimen that the Tri-Hi-Y sponsored this year's Mr. Wonderful Dance. This year's Mr. Wonderful was Mike Decandio. Movies taken of Federals were shown at the dance, in which Fort Hunt's illustrious students were shown at their candid best. The Tri-Hi-Y generously donated a share of the proceeds to the toothpaste campaign.

Candidates for the title of Mr. Wonderful mingle in the crowd.

The entertainment was so fine!

Coach Manning shoots lay-up for faculty.

The Senior basketball team confidently challenged the old, pot-bellied faculty team and were brought to a 33-32 defeat by the "codgers." It was a close game all the way, with the lead jumping back and forth between these two teams, but finally, in the closing moments of the game, the seniors were unable to score the needed points.
